SENATOR DAVIS CLEARED IN NYE REPORT

Pullman's Birthday
Einstein on Religion
When a Grizzly Is Shot
A Real Gas Fight

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

NEW YORK, March 3 — Today is the anniversary of the birth of George M. Pullman, father of the American sleeping car, improved the whole world, will be celebrated with a dinner here. Mrs. [illegible] in the Pullman organization, including George M. [illegible] youngest daughter, Harriet, Mrs. Arthur F. Schemerhorn, attended.

George M. Pullman, one of the great benefactors of his country, gave employment and value to the [illegible] giant men. There are [illegible] monuments erected [illegible] inscribed on each [illegible] the psalms, "[illegible] beloved sleep."

THE INDIANS of the Grand Canyon [illegible] have adopted [illegible] religion, giving him for [illegible] The Great Relative," [illegible] relativity" theory. [illegible] pathetic struggles, [illegible] possible for Professor [illegible] keep out of the lime-[illegible] publicity.

[illegible] everywhere will be [illegible] Professor Einstein's [illegible] opinion on the gradual [illegible] of religion and the [illegible]

[illegible] of the beginning of [illegible] of Herbert Spencer [illegible]

Religion started in fear. Savage [illegible] a powerful being, [illegible] ferocious — like them[illegible] they tried to placate [illegible] sacrifices, including hu[illegible] offer[illegible]

[illegible] the religion of fear."

THIS FEAR says Professor Einstein, developed a priesthood [illegible] to mediate between the people and the being they feared, thereby gaining a position of power."

Then the leader, despot or a privileged class combined the function of the priesthood with temporal rule.

Later, God was looked upon as [illegible] upon their parents, punishing and rewarding good deeds. [illegible] began a religion of "providence."

It is very interesting to read Dr. Einstein's description of gradual changes in religion. Concerning his own religion, that of the Jews, he says: It is easy to follow in the sacred writings of the Jewish people the development of the religion [illegible] the moral religion. [illegible] carried further in the New Testament.

"BELIEF IS ANOTHER religious [illegible] according to Einstein, of [illegible] exceptionally gifted [illegible] especially noble [illegible] capabel." This [illegible] religious experi[illegible] the cosmic religious [illegible] the cosmic religious feeling is a little difficult for [illegible] man, because "it does [illegible] an anthropomorphic idea of God" namely, the imagining of God as an individual with a head and clothes like a man.

Professor Einstein agrees with [illegible] that the Buddhists [illegible] more of the genuine cosmic religion than the Christian or Jewish religions.

Among those "cosmic religion" [illegible] personalities as Democritus, Saint Francis of Assisi, and Spinoza, Jewish philosopher, are [illegible] another.

It is a little "highbrow" for the average individual, who clings to his "anthropomorphic" idea and [illegible] God who can be called [illegible] Father — not one in a fourth [illegible] dimension.

COURT SWEARS IN JURY FOR RALLS TRIAL

Thirteenth Member Will Be Named Following Recess for Noon.

CASE'S PROGRESS RAPID

Scene of Sheriff's Shooting at Crestline To Be Viewed.

Special to The Star.

BUCYRUS, O., March 3—A jury to hear the charges of first degree murder against Walter Ralls, 32, Negro of Crestline indicted in the fatal shooting of Sheriff George Davenport Jan. 23, was sworn in today at 11:23 a. m.

A thirteenth or emergency juror will be named this afternoon before the attorneys begin their opening statements. The jury probably will visit the scene of the shooting, the Ralls home at Crestline, this afternoon.

Unusual progress has marked the selection of a jury. The defense counsel, Louis Kreiter, exercised all six of his peremptory challenges while the state did not use one. Four women and eight men make up the jury.

No Witnesses Called

No witnesses have been subpoenaed by the defense and Ralls' attorney has not divulged what defense will be offered. The state has called 23 witnesses to date. It is likely that the first will take the stand late this afternoon after the jurors return from Crestline.

This morning's court session was unusually quiet. The routine work of examining witnesses progressed without clashes between attorneys and only 10 veniremen passed through the box before both the state and defense declared they were satisfied with the jury.

Ralls maintained his usual interest in the proceedings as he sat at the table with his counsel. He was one of three indicted in the shooting. A nephew, Blanton, 19, is scheduled to go on trial later in the week. A brother, Elijah, was shot to death when he attempted to escape from the county jail the day following the shooting.

In examining prospective jurors this morning, Prosecutor J. D. Sear indicated that he would ask the electric chair for Ralls. He asked every juror if he had any personal reason for not returning a verdict of first degree murder without recommendation of mercy.

Members of Jury

The members of the jury are Roy Dinkel of Galion, George Carmer of Galion, Carl Monal of Galion, Robert McCallister of Crestline, Mrs. J. J. Allwardt of Galion, Joshua Lichtenwalter of Bucyrus, M. N. Roberts of Bucyrus, Mrs.

TRIAL OF DAUGHERTY LIKELY TO END SOON

Final Arguments for Fraud Hearing Slated for Today; Defense Rests.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON C. H., O., March 3—The trial of Mal S. Daugherty, alleged to have abstracted funds while president of the closed Ohio State bank, progressed to the point of final arguments today.

After nearly two weeks of presentation of testimony, the defense rested late yesterday when the state concluded cross examination of Daugherty. The defense reserved the right to call additional witnesses, but it was expected this right would not be exercised.

Court attaches said the arguments probably would require a day and a half, although trial Judge C. S. Bell did not say how much time would be allowed.

A blanket denial of all charges ended the testimony of Daugherty, a brother of former United States Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty. He specifically denied fraudulent intent in connection with notes and checks to the amount of $5,350 and bearing the name of John Perrill, wealthy Fayette county farmer. Daugherty was tried on a charge of embezzling this amount, although 16 other indictments have been returned against him.

A denial that there was an irregularity in loans on three other notes amounting to $16,250 also was made by Daugherty.

5 OF FAMILY PERISH IN FIRE

Pennsylvania Parents, 3 Children Trapped in Blazing Frame Structure.

ONE DAUGHTER ESCAPES

Firemen Battle Flames, Ignorant of Family's Presence in House.

By United Press.

TARENTUM, Pa., March 3—Five persons were burned to death today when fire trapped them in the second floor of their frame house in Russelton, near here.

The dead: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Daniels,, about 45, and their children, Mary, Frank Jr. and Patrick, all under 10 years of age.

A fourth child, Julia, suffered a fractured leg when she leaped from a window to escape the flames. A fifth child, Lucy, had spent the night with a married sister living nearby. Lucy was among the first to reach the scene of the blaze and became hysterical as she watched the fatal blaze.

The fire was caused by an overheated stove on the first floor according to firemen.

The house was reduced to a mass of smouldering embers before it was realized that five persons had been burned. Those about the fire had believed that the entire family had escaped.

The firemen found the first floor a mass of flames. The blaze extended up the sides of the second story to the roof. Julia had leaped to safety and had been removed for medical attention.

Firemen thinking the family safe, concentrated on extinguishing the flames. A line of hose was laid to little Deer creek, almost a mile distant, from which water was pumped.

DEMOCRATIC PEACE PROSPECTS INCREASE

Prohibition Bogey About Eliminated as Leaders Arrive for Meeting.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 3—The prohibition bogey, which of late has haunted Democratic statesmen, today was all but laid to rest.

Harmony was spread thick over disturbed feelings as the party's chieftains began to assemble for the Thursday parley of their national committee.

Chairman Raskob, silent as he has been since it first was rumored he would seek commitments of the party's sterling body to the wet side of the liquor question, was on hand to prepare things.

Alfred E. Smith stopped off in Washington today on his way back from Raleigh, where he addressed the North Carolina assembly yesterday. He went into conference with Democratic leaders in the forenoon.

The former New York governor and Presidential candidate in 1928 was met at the station by Raskob. The two went into hiding.

Officers of the national committee would not disclose Mr. Smith's whereabouts immediately.

Meanwhile, southern Democrats in congress were interpreting Mr. Smith's statement in Raleigh yesterday—that the Thursday meeting had no authority to place the party on record on national issues such as prohibition—as terminating the controversy on this point.

Senator Morrison of North Carolina, said Mr. Smith's statement "ended" the dispute.

Smith's View Important

His expression in the Carolina city yesterday that policy matters were not for the committee to determine, went perhaps longest of all in assuaging the unease which had been manifest chiefly among the southerners in congress. To this was added a telegram to Raskob from William G. McAdoo in Los Angeles urging against tying of the party to a wet policy.

The two topped a crop of telegrams, letters, resolutions and expressions of the consensus of this Democratic group and that which piled high objections to determining any sort of policy at the impending gathering.

Opponents of such action in con-

CAPITOL SCENE OF NEAR RIOT

Troopers Eject 200 Communist Agitators from Albany Assembly.

CLUBS BROUGHT INTO PLAY

Demonstration Started as Move in Behalf of Unemployed.

By The Associated Press

ALBANY, N. Y., March 3—Shouting and tumult amounting to a virtual small riot by 200 demonstrators for the unemployed brought the assembly session to a halt shortly after the session began today. State troopers seized demonstrators by the dozen and ejected them from the chamber while others in the galleries shouted and waved their arms.

The uproar showed no signs of abatement at the end of five minutes with state troopers still striving to quiet the noise and eject the more violent demonstrators. A group gathered about on the steps of the capitol.

When troopers started to clear the galleries some of the Communists shouted "fight." Troopers swung their clubs vigorously and at the end of 10 minutes had evicted every one from the gallery over the speaker's rostrum and had forced the exit of those who were in the rear of the chamber.

Troopers Knocked Down

One or two troopers were knocked down in the melee but soon regained their feet even before others had come to their aid. Members of the assembly and the spectators who had thronged the chamber applauded vigorously when the demonstrators were ejected.

The disturbance started when the

CLASSROOMS BURN

Fenn College in Cleveland Suffers Heavy Fire Damage.

By United Press

CLEVELAND, O., March 3—Fire of undetermined origin early today swept through the three-story Fenn college building and destroyed the classrooms on the upper floors of the building.

First Assistant Fire Chief James Nimmo said the blaze started in a third floor room in which four men were reported to have been sleeping and spread through the walls to other parts of the building.

Nimmo was told by authorities of the college, a branch of the Cleveland Y. M. C. A. educational system, that no one had permission to sleep in the third floor room that houses a small heating plant. He requested an investigation by fire wardens.

Nimmo estimated total damage at more than $10,000.

DRY LAW TEST VOTE ON TODAY

Nipper Repeal Resolution on Program of Ohio House.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., March 3 The first test of sentiment of the Ohio house of representatives on the question of constitutional prohibition was due today.

The Nippert resolution providing for a vote of the electors next November on a proposal to repeal the Ohio prohibition amendment to the constitution, was on the calendar for action on the floor of the house.

Lester J. Abale, Republican, of Cleveland, majority leader of the house and one of staunchest supporters of the resolution, probably will not be present for the vote, as he had been ill with influenza during the last two days.

Supporters of the resolution are not optimistic as to its passage. Many have said the rural members, who are in the majority, will defeat the measure.

NEW ISSUE DEVELOPS

Legislators At Odds Over Demanding Information from White.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., March 3—Whether Governor White should be required to immediately furnish the Ohio assembly with detailed information as to his welfare program was a political issue in the legislature today.

Efforts to obtain immediate senate action last night on a resolution requesting the information were thwarted by the Democratic minority which insisted the governor "certainly has common sense enough to furnish the information as soon as it is available."

The resolution was offered by Majority Leader Earl R. Lewis, who contended it is necessary that the assembly know what the governor's plans for rehabilitating and increasing the state's welfare institutions are before it can take action toward carrying them out. This information, he insisted, must be immediately forthcoming.

The resolution offered by Lewis alluded to the governor's message recommending a $25,000,000 bond issue.

GALION DIVIDED OVER SCHOOL HEAD'S PLAN

Protest Rehiring of Superintendent Following Introduction of New Educational System.

By International News Service.

GALION, O., March 3—The entire citizenry of Galion was split into opposing factions today over the reelection of J. F. Bemiller as superintendent of public schools here.

Objecting to Bemiller's introduction of the Dalton plan,—a plan which allows pupils to do what they like best so long as they arrange to do their scheduled work within a limited amount of time—a group met with the board of education last night and laid down a vigorous protest against Bemiller's reelection.

A group of citizens were present to oppose the reelection of the superintendent and presented a petition of 1500 names opposing Bemiller. Included in this group were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sanderlin, H. W. Yunker, W. D. Burkhart, Charles Klossner. They gave talks.

Included in the group which gave talks favoring the reelection were Mrs. Henry Quiggle, Robert Phipps, John Schalk and Harry E. Budd. No action was taken in the matter by the board.

SENATE TENSE WITH SESSION NEARING END

Proceedings Resumed After Night Meeting Lasting Till 3 A. M.

SHOALS VETO DUE TODAY

Filibuster Staged on Copyright Bill; Immigration Cut Proposed.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 3—Pent up feelings, tensed at last chances for much-desired legislation withered and died, held congress in a tight snarl today as it sought to wind up the session in orderly fashion.

The senate, far the most upset of the two branches, found itself at work until 3 a. m. today, deadlocked in a filibuster over a copyright bill which really had vital interest for only a handful of members.

It recessed then, to meet again at 10 a. m., expectant of the veto message of President Hoover on the Muscle Shoals operation resolution. It faced too, the task of cleaning up work on the second deficiency appropriation, a hundred million dollar measure whose passage was imperative.

Under Attack

This was subjected to the withering cross fire of conflicting efforts on behalf of other legislation. Senator Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, was determined against odds to put through the Jenkins immigration bill, restricting the alien influx by 90 per cent. Senator Hebert, Republican of Rhode Island, held on fast for passage of the Vestal copyright bill against which two Democrats, Trammel of Florida and Dill of Washington, waged a determined talking campaign.

Supporters of oil embargo legislation apparently had lost their last hope during the long night session.

The sum total of accomplishment in the night session was one farm-aid bill, a measure to slap a 10 cents a pound tax on yellow oleomargerine, thus shutting out its competition with butter, and confirmation of a number of minor nominations.

Finally Adjourns

Repeated efforts for adjournment were made and failed. Quorum calls were resorted to for maintaining a majority in attendance but this narrowed at last to a bare 49, and the senate gave up.

Reed's attempt on behalf of the immigration bill, passed only yesterday by the house, involved getting the senate to overrule the vice president, who had ordered the bill could not be called up again today. He was confident, however, that a good majority was with him.

The house, meanwhile, had adjourned at 10 p. m. yesterday and its members returned to work far fresher than the senators.

There was more time there for speculation over yesterday's progressive call for a non-partisan conference of liberal-minded tendencies. Despite staunch disclaimers by the leading progressives themselves there was talk about the possible third-party significance. Sponsors of the meeting called for March 11 maintained it was for formulation of a constructive legislative program, with emphasis on economic policies.

The formidable potentialities of the movement rested in the power of a united progressive force may wield in the next congress.

TAX PAYMENTS HERE NEAR MILLION MARK

Treasurer Reports $957,899 Collected for December Half.

Taxes received from the December collection totaled $957,899.17 at the close of final extension period yesterday, County Treasurer Bert J. Shelton announced today.

This figure is $138,000 less than the amount collected a year ago, but part of this shortage is due to the fact that taxes were reduced by $112,500 for the year due to a revaluation of real estate. Since half of this reduction, or $56,125, applies to the December collection, then the shortage is approximately $82,000.

Part of this delinquency will be paid before the June collection begins, Shelton believes.

Beginning today, all belated payments will be assessed a 10 per cent penalty while delinquent personal property taxes will be further penalized by making the bill for the entire year become due and payable at once.

Coincident with the close of the final extension period yesterday, Shelton gave out advance draws amounting to $233,000. The majority of this, a $137,000 draw, was advanced to the city of Marion, while the remainder went to other districts and for the payment of bonds and coupons which fell due on March 1.

The draws were advanced yesterday pending final distribution of the half-year collection.

ARSON GANG IS BLAMED

Police Suspect Bomb Responsible for Detonation in Philadelphia.

By United Press.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 3—A score of persons were hurled from their beds and the entire neighborhood was rocked when an explosion partially wrecked the Lincoln theater here early today. Damage was tentatively estimated at $30,000.

The building is owned by Michael Moran who said he closed the theater at 10 o'clock last night because he had no audience. Firemen said that after the explosion they detected strong gasoline and ether odors.

Arrests were expected. Police said they were convinced an "arson mob" which is known to be operating here, was responsible for the blast.

None of those thrown from their beds was hurt seriously though a girl in an adjoining building temporarily lost the power of speech.

Windows in buildings in the entire neighborhood were shattered and debris from the theater building was found more than 75 feet away.

Police said the theater recently was involved in a labor dispute but that the disagreement was believed amicably settled.

By United Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 3—The possibility that a bomb was responsible for an explosion which injured 22 persons and forced 100 more to the street was investigated by police today.

The blast, which occurred shortly before midnight, wrecked six apartments, a section of the Seville hotel, and broke windows within a radius of 10 blocks.

Assistant Superintendent of Police Joseph Lentrange said he was convinced a bomb had been placed in the areaway between the hotel and the first apartment house.

Twenty-two persons in the six buildings were injured by falling plaster. They were treated by ambulance crews and taken to hospitals. More than 100 persons rushed to the street in fear of a second blast. The terrific detonation was heard for more than a mile.

Monocles Next

(Will Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. March 3—Well, let's see what happened over (what the English taught us to call the week-end). We copped all their expressions, week-end, fortnight, ylus fours. We are now adopting the street busses that has been our source of amusement over there. We will cop their monocle yet if they don't watch us.

Bernard Shaw had us right in the papers this morning, "We do things well when somebody shows us how," but with all our monkey traits, we are kicking along pretty good.

Our Congress is going to adjourn this week. Then watch things hum, if we can only prevent another drouth and disarmament conference.

NO EVIDENCE OF CORRUPTION IS REVEALED

Former Labor Secretary and Others Found Without Blame.

EXPENSE FUND SCORED

Davis-Brown Campaign Cost Far Too High, Senate Probers Report.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 3—The Nye campaign funds committee told the senate today its investigations had yielded nothing to reflect upon the honor and integrity of Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania.

The long awaited report of the Keystone state primary and election, however, condemned as "excessive and inimical to the public interest" the expenditure of $622,928 it reported for the Davis-Brown ticket in the Republican primary of last year.

Not only the former labor secretary but his opponents as well were cleared of any suggestion of smirch, but for all the statement was qualified.

No Sign of Corruption

"Unless the expenditure of more than $600,000 in the primary • • • can be construed as in itself constituting corruption," the committee concluded, "in fairness to Senator Davis as well as the other candidates in the Pennsylvania senatorial election, your committee desires to state that the evidence heard by it does not disclose any corruption for which he must be held personally responsible, nor has anything been revealed • • • reflecting upon the honor and integrity of Senator Davis or any other senatorial candidate."

Besides Chairman Nye, who is a Republican from North Dakota, Senators Dale, Republican of Vermont, and Dill of Washington, and Wagner of New York, Democrats, signed the report.

A minority report submitted by Senator Patterson, Republican of Missouri, cleared Davis without qualification and objected to the concluding paragraph of the majority report. He said this was inserted after the first draft had been agreed upon.

Regarding the contention that Davis was chargeable with only a small percentage of the total spent for the seven-candidate ticket, the majority report said the committee felt itself not called upon to "attempt the impossible task of determining the amount of expenditures to be allocated to each individual candidate."

But it called to attention that the senate had condemned $195,000 expenditure in behalf of former Senator Newberry, Republican, of Michigan, and the $785,000 for the Vare-Beidelman Republican primary ticket in Pennsylvania, in 1926.

Listing the expenditures for the general election slate headed by Davis as $494,720 and the total for both Republican primary and election as $1,117,648, the report added:

"Your committee is impressed by the size of these aggregate expenditures even when due regard is given to the area and population of Pennsylvania. It regards the expenditure of $622,000 as excessive and inimical to the public interest, whether such sum is expended on behalf of one candidate or a group of candidates in any primary election. Such a condition cannot be permitted to continue unchallenged without the most serious consequences to the nation."

REACH SETTLEMENT ON SALT QUESTION

Gandhi Agreement with England Likely To End Disobedience Campaign.

By The Associated Press.

NEW DELHI, March 3—Mahatma Gandhi and Sir George Schuster, Indian finance minister, conferring today at the vice-regal palace, reached an agreement on the salt question, one of the outstanding problems in the way of abandonment of the civil disobedience campaign.

Almost exactly a year ago the Indian Nationalists, led by Gandhi, initiated a campaign of violation of the salt laws, which provide for a British monopoly. Throughout current negotiations for calling off the civil campaign Gandhi has contended that disobedience of the Indian people be employed to make their own salt.

Gandhi arose at 4 a. m. and was seen on the balcony of his house with his arms outstretched to heaven praying and reciting the litany of Gita, or Hindu bible. Beside him, with her face toward the dawn, stood the mystical white-robed figure of Miss Madeline Slade, British born convert of the Mahatma.

It was understood the agreement provides that people living on the seacoast will be allowed to manufacture and sell salt which will be regarded as nature's gift to them.

BEHOLD THE STRANGER!

A STRANGER moves to your neighborhood. You observe him tolerantly, but with no immediate display of interest. You are an established resident, getting along very nicely before he came.

But you do not avoid him. For reasons not entirely unselfish you wait for him to reveal himself. Possibly he may add something to your social and business life. Possibly he will take a highly respected place in the community. He may even become one of your intimates. It is up to him.

So you note his manners, talk with him, and form an opinion. If he comes up to your requirements, you accept him, and often he proves a welcome addition to your group of friends.

It is with exactly the same attitude that the intelligent newspaper reader regards the advertisements of products new to him. These strangers may add something to his civilized enjoyment. They may contribute to his comfort, safety -- even his success. In many ways they may prove valuable. Certainly it is wise to give them careful consideration.

Read the advertisements in The Marion Star. They may be the means of introducing you to products that will take important places in your life. And every day they will give you information that enables you to buy intelligently and make your money go farther.

Mystery Veils Five-Day Memory Lapse of Actress

By United Press.

MONTEREY, Calif., March 3 — Edna Mae Cooper, Hollywood film actress and aviator who wandered about Monterey in a daze while all California hunted her, may have lost her memory for five days because of an airplane accident, it was believed today by her friends and authorities.

The actress, in a serious condition from bruises and a severe blow on the head, said she was as mystified as anyone by the strange series of events that brought her 350 miles from Hollywood to a room in a Monterey hospital.

It was just like a movie thriller, Miss Cooper said today in telling how she took off in her airplane for Santa Monica last week to rest and rid herself of a headache. She remembers nothing else.

She's Mystified

How she got to Monterey, registered at a hotel as "Caroline Hope," walked about the seaside resort and finally summoned a physician to treat the headache, were things she could not remember when she "came to."

Dr. Hugh Dormody of Monterey whose questioning of Miss Cooper led her to reveal her identity, said the injuries probably were due to an accidental fall or a beating.

Miss Cooper could recall nothing beyond the take-off in her airplane, and believed she was in Santa Monica until Dr. Dormody told her she was in Monterey.

The girl said she knew Mrs. Gouvendur Morris, wife of the novelist, in Bel Monte, one mile from Monterey, and at the doctor's request she wrote her a note. She signed it "Edna Mae Cooper."

"Why that's my real name," the girl cried in surprise.

Dr. Dormody removed her to the hospital and summoned Mrs. Morris, who with Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, completed the identification.

Possible Cause of Amnesia

The blonde actress and Miss Bobbie Trout of Los Angeles established a new world's endurance record for women last January. The mental and physical strain of the flight may have caused temporary amnesia, her friends said. On the other hand, her injuries pointed to an accident, possibly in the airplane, they added.

Whatever the cause, District Attorney Russell Scott of Monterey county indicated today after an investigation that there was no necessity for official action. Miss Cooper may leave the hospital as soon as physicians permit, he said.

POLICE MAKE ARREST HOUR AFTER THEFT

Take Two Youths After Radio Set Is Reported Missing.

Police established a new record of speed yesterday afternoon by recovering a stolen radio and arresting a youth in connection with the theft an hour after the set was reported missing.

As a result, George Zahn, 19, and Vane Zahn, 15, of 451 Avondale avenue, are being questioned by police this morning and probably will face charges shortly in connection with the theft, police say.

The set was stolen from Mrs. Dona Evans at 234 Tully street yesterday afternoon, and sold at a second hand store. By tracing the set through the second hand store, police soon learned who had sold the set. George Zahn was immediately arrested and booked on investigation after he had confessed to selling the set here. His younger brother was arrested later last night and taken to the detention home.

MANAGERS NAME BASEBALL COMMISSION

THREE NEW MEMBERS ELECTED TO POSTS ON DIAMOND BOARD

Harruff, Siefert, Howard Are Chosen to Positions; Crissinger Named President.

Approximately 80 persons attended the annual spring baseball banquet of the Marion baseball commission last night in the Y. M C. A. Following the banquet the incoming baseball board was chosen by the managers and captains of the city baseball teams.

Three members of the 1930 commission are replaced as a result of the elections last night. Francis Bacon, one of the three was not up for reelection inasmuch as he is not a resident of Marion at present. Anson Pickerel and Elmer Smith were not reelected.

Replacing Pickerel, Smith and Bacon are William Harruff, E. G. Siefert and Don Howard. Howard is connected with the Huber Mfg. Co., Harruff is building contractor and Siefert is district manager of an insurance company.

Acting under a new by-law adopted by the 1930 commission four members of the 1931 group were chosen for a three-year term of office. Three more were chosen for two years and the final three were named for a single season.

W. N. Harder, N. E. Crissinger, R. G. Smallwood and William Fabian were named for three year terms, T. M. Cunningham, Homer Little, W. D. Martin, and William Harruff were named for two years and Leo Keller, E. T. Smart, E. G. Siefert and Don Howard were named to one-year terms.

After the election of the board the group was immediately organized. N. E. Crissinger was named president, W. N. Harder, vice president, Elmer Shaw, secretary and Roy Waddell, treasurer. With the exception of Shaw all the officers were in office last year.

The new commission will hold its first meeting sometime within the next two weeks, President Crissinger said following last night's election.

Commission Will Hear Reason For Quick Knockout

By United Press.

NEW YORK, March 3 - Billy Petrolle of Fargo, N. D., and King Tut of Minneapolis, were to appear before the New York boxing commission today in an effort to prove their fight in Madison Square Garden last Friday night was strictly on the up and up.

Everyone connected with the scrap, from the principals and matchmaker Tom McCardle of the garden to the waterboys, has been summoned to the commission's meeting. All will be given an opportunity to express their views of the bout which ended in a fourth-round knockout by Petrolle and sent the customers into the night wild with excitement

The long finger of suspicion is pointed at the fight for several reasons, but principally because of the sudden and last-minute shift in the betting odds. As the preliminaries started Tut was being quoted at even money and 6 to 5. By the time the two principals climbed through the ropes Petrolle had been installed as an 8 to 5 favorite.

"In the Bag"

This sudden change of heart by the boys who lay it on the line was interpreted by many to mean that Petrolle, despite his 31-second knockout at the hands of the King less than two weeks before, was certain to win.

Sudden shifts in the betting odds is not new to New York fight circles, however. On the afternoon of the night Jimmy McLarnin met Al Singer, then lightweight champion of the world, the heavier McLarnin was the choice at 5 to 2 or 3 to 1. When the bell rang for the first round Singer was a 9 to 5 favorite. Singer's sudden ascension to the favorite's post gave birth to all sorts of reports that the fight was "in the bag" for the lightweight champion. The reports died away when Singer hit the mat for good in the third round

Minnesota Acts

Belief that there might be something phony about Tut's knockout was strengthened by the action of the Minnesota boxing commission and the National Boxing association. Both bodies suspended the fighters, their managers and all fighters belonging to the same stables.

To most of the customers and boxing writers who viewed the fight it looked like the real thing. The action was whirlwind all the way and both men absorbed plenty of punishment. The blow that sent Tut down for good—a crackling right that landed smack on the button—was certainly of sufficient power to warrant a 10 count.

Before Tut went down for the last time he took three counts while on his knees. This, he explained, was because he was sezed with intense abdominal pains and his legs "just folded up." Following the bout he was carried to Polyclinic hospital for an examination. He was released the next day.

JUDE STRAHL LOSES FIGHT TO BECK BY TECHNICAL KNOCKOUT

300 Persons Witness Opening of Boxing Shows in Steam Shovel Gym.

A crowd of approximately 300 persons witnessed the first of a proposed series of bi-weekly boxing cards in the Steam Shovel gymnasium. Babe Beck of Dayton and Jude Strahl of Indianapolis were the principals in the main go of the card, Beck winning over the Indianapolis fighter in the fifth round by a technical knockout.

K O. Johnnie Roberts of Columbus and Wildcat Hebner of Louisville, Ky., opened the card with a six-round go, the decision going to Hebner after six rounds of fairly fast action.

Terry Clark of Columbus was given the judges decision over Charlie Court of Cincinnati in the second of the preliminary shows. Neither of the fighters were in difficulty at any time, few damaging blows being struck.

Ray McCarty of Marion took the decision over Eddie Townley of Columbus in the semi-final six-round go of the card. McCarty displayed a neat left hand and also showed a willingness to mix it up most of the time. Townley saved himself from a worse beating by clinching whenever he had the opportunity.

Babe Beck, 170-pound slugger of Dayton hammered Jude Strahl into submission by the middle of the fifth round by hammering the Indianapolis fighter's body. Strahl was unable to stand the body attack and wilted near the close of the third round. The bell saved him from a knockout in the fourth and his manager threw in the towel before the fifth was completed. Strahl was cut and bleeding badly before the end of the fight as a result of Beck's hard smashes to the face.

Frank Dean, promoter of the show last night will stage another program in two weeks at the Shovel gym.

RAJAH DECLINES TO PREDICT WHERE CUBS WILL COMPLETE RACE

Leaders of Bruins Fearful Lest Happenings of Last Year Repeat.

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Cal., March 3—The spectre of last year's ill-fated happenings which went a long way toward keeping the club from a National league pennant has put caution on the tongues of those who would like to prophecy a great year for the Chicago Cubs.

Rogers Hornsby, player manager, who figured prominently in these disastrous occurrences, steadfastly refuses to predict, although he willingly admits that the pitching prospects are much better than last season and the rest of the squad holds greater promise.

William Wrigley, Jr., whose money has made this possible vouchsafes that it is the "best outfit he has ever seen assembled here," but he recalls the untimely death of Harold Carlson, veteran pitcher; Hornsby with a broken leg and Lester Bell and Riggs Stephenson with arm injuries and will not forecast his club's chances.

The pitching staff is so good the rajah is puzzled as to just whose names will be crossed off the roster. He contemplates keeping eleven of the sixteen who reported here.

Besides such veterans as Charles Root, Guy Bush, Pat Malone, Sheriff Blake, at least two of the rookies hold promise and three tried and proven hurlers from Boston, Cincinnati and Philadelphia are helping to make the spring training grid a cheerful one.

Although Hornsby says without hesitation that he figures to use Hack Wilson, Riggs Stephenson and Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler as his regular outfield, he is pleased with the spring training bat work of Johnny Moore, up for the second time from Los Angeles, and Vincent Barton, a big Canadian from Baltimore. They both hit .342 last year.

Rogers intends to play right through at second base, regardless of his managerial handicap, and contemplates using the same infield as last year with Charles Grimm at first, Elwood English at short and Lester Bell at third.

For these reasons, those who are so priviliged would like to predict a great year—but hold their tongues, lest lightning strike twice in the same place.

THORPE STILL GRINS DESPITE MENIAL JOB

Former Brilliant Indian Athlete on "Pick and Shovel" Gang Now.

By The Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 3—Jim Thorpe, acclaimed the greatest football player of all time and once holder of the title of world's best all-round athlete, is working here as a laborer with pick and shovel for $4 per day, but he can still grin.

The once mighty Indian of Carlisle, who in 1912, almost single handed cornered Olympic honors for his native country, only to relinquish his trophies later under charges of professionalism, is not ashamed of his job.

Big Jim is determined to beat back.

"I'm not through," he said today.

Jim is a nonentity in a motley crew of diggers excavating for the new Los Angeles county hospital. He answers to "J. Thorpe" at the paymaster's wicket.

No one pays any attention to the clod's he's digging up now.

After work Jim goes home to a very small cottage where Mrs. Thorpe who also can smile still, and Phillip, 4, and Billy, 2, wait for him. Sometimes at night Jim opens a big book and the little Thorpes look properly awed, as though understanding it all. The book contains many clippings and some photographs.

It's hard to find a reason for the present state of affairs of the smiling former athletic kingpin.

"Guess it's an old story," he grins. "I liked to be a good fellow with the boys. But I'll come out of this. And I'll do some saving when I do."

Thorpe attended Carlisle Indian school from 1907 to 1912. He starred in football, baseball and track.

In raising the flag of his native land to the top of the Olympic mast, Jim, after winning the five events of the decathlon, took 8,412 points out of a possible 10,000 in the pentathlon's ten events, comprising the severest of all athletic contests.

He was named all-American halfback in 1911 and 1912. From 1914 to 1929 he played professional football and baseball. The Canton Bulldogs, with him as half-back-manager, were undefeated for five years.

Jim is dickering with two schools for the post of all-around coach. The schools are Dickinson college at Carlisle, Pa., where he won undying fame, and Mississippi A. & M. For sentimental reasons he prefers the former college.

"I'd feel better back there. In the meantime the pick and shovel will have to do."

GRAINS SHOW EARLY LOSSES

Downturn at Liverpool Reacts Unfavorable to Chicago Quotations.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 3—Grains underwent early downturns today, with corn and oats outdoing season bottom price records. Weakness of Liverpool quotations and favorable weather for United States winter wheat were leading bearish factors. Opening unchanged to ⅝@¾ cents off, wheat afterward held near to initial figures. Corn started at ⅜ decline to ⅛ advance and subsequently rallied.

Rain in Texas and snow in Kansas and Nebraska tended to encourage wheat selling and there were Liverpool advices that exporting countries led by Australia had begun pressing wheat upon European purchasers. Reports said United States farm board subsidiaries also had disposed of moderate quantities of wheat overnight to Antwerp at the lowest prices so far, 12 to 12½ cents under Chicago May for Gulf of Mexico, No. 1 hard.

Scarcity of corn offerings after price setbacks led to a show of independence by the corn market. Ensuing advances were associated with a falling-off in the volume of primary receipts. Total arrivals were 892,000 bushels, compared with 1,407,000 a week ago. Chicago had 178 cars against 286 last week. Oats followed wheat rather than corn. Provisions responded to a rise in hog values.

The "business women" of Harding High school organized after school today. These "business women" are the 11 girls who assist Miss Elizabeth Pace, high school secretary, during the eight periods of school each day.

Misis Lucile Valentine and Miss Pace have been the leaders in organizing the latest club at the high school. Officers were to be elected this afternoon, a name selected and plans made for future meetings.

Members of the club are Misses Pace, Valentine, Virginia Walterhus, Lena Mohat, Vivian Wener, Gertrude Welch, Martha McKeever, Louise Obenour, Imogene Lott, Ileen Kraus, Louise Adams and Nellie Roberts.

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, March 4

THE astrological forecast for this day is for a very interesting as well as complex state of affairs. The essential thing is a promise of substantial progress and stabilizing of the fortunes through individual effort and steadfastness, winning the recognition and assistance of elderly persons or old established institutions. However, there are some hazards to employment and there are menaces of friction and confusion in business as well as private affairs. Restraint and self-government, especially in speech, may prove advantageous.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year in which much depends upon their own merit, diligence, amiability and self-restraint. There are excellent prospects of stabilizing the fortunes through elderly influence, although the employment holds some adverse signs. Shun friction and complications in personal affiliations. A child born on this day should be industrious, ambitious and efficient but it may be prone to complicate its affairs through rash and turbulent speech and actions.

5 TEACHERS LIVE FOR DAY ON $1

Instructors Work With Nutritionist to Prepare Well-Balanced Menu At Least Possible Cost.

STUDENTS of food who take into consideration the number of calories and other values of various foods say a family of five can be well nourished for $1 a day. That experiment has been worked out by a group of city teachers studying foods in a class conducted by Miss Esther Tress, Red Cross nutritionits.

The three meals containing 11-600 calorie with adequate protein, lime, phosphorous, iron and vitamin content, were prepared and eaten by five persons, and the total cost of the 15 meals was $1, according to Miss Tress.

Breakfast Menu

The breakfast menu included prunes, whole wheat, milk, sugar, corn and meat scrapple, oleomargerine and molasses. The cost of this breakfast for five persons was 24 cents.

Lunch included macaroni, cheese, bread and oleomargarine at a total cost of 26 cetns for five persons.

Dinner was more elaborate with salmon loaf, baked potato, creamed onion, buttered dried peas, raw carrot, baked apples with milk. The cost was 50 cents for five servings.

Oleomargarine was substituted for butter because milk was provided in both breakfast and dinner menus. By buying provisions in larger quantities the cost could be reduced even further, according to Miss Tress. Serving the dinner to eight instead of five persons reduced the cost from 10 cents a person to eight cents. If the housewife bakes her own bread the cost of that item is cut in half. Only the cost of the food actually consumed was considered in the cost of the meals, as all left over was intended for later meals.

Use Local Quotations

The prices of the foods were computed on local market quotations as of Feb. 22.

The class of teachers making the experiment are earning two semester credit hours in the extension work conducted by Miss Tress, who is now carrying out a full program of nutrition instruction in the elementary schools of the city.

Misses Mabel Balmer and Harriett Smith, members of the class, prepared the meals as an experiment. Further experiments will be made.

ASTRAL SICKLE IN MARCH SKIES

BY ROBERT H. BAKER
(Professor of Astronomy, University of Illinois)
By The Associated Press.

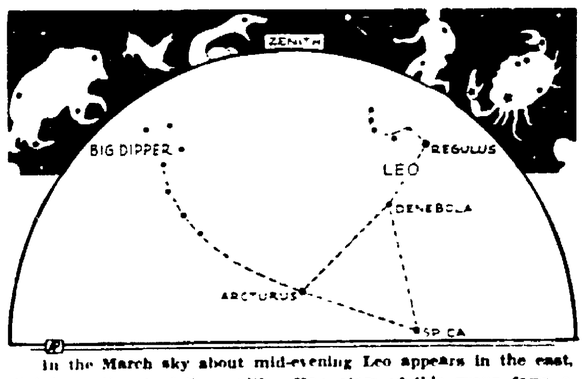
URBANA, Ill.—About 9 p. m. on a March night one finds in the eastern sky, just rising, the constellation of Bootes, marked by the bright star Arcturus. A little southeast of the zenith is Leo.

This is a brilliant group of stars six of which are arranged in the form of a sickle, with the bright star Regulus at the base or handle. The top of the sickle is to the north and the blade opens toward the west.

The constellation extends from the sickle eastward to Denebola which is half way on a line drawn from Regulus to Arcturus. The ancients saw in this group of stars, Leo, the lion. The sickle formed his head and mane and Denebola was at the end of the tail.

• • •

A SPECTACULAR and entertaining sight through an ordinary pair of field glasses is the star cluster Praesepe, or the Beehive, in Cancer. About 9 on a night in the middle of March it is on the meridian, south of the zenith.



In the March sky about mid-evening Leo appears in the east, slightly southeast of the zenith. How stars of this group form a sickle is shown.

A convenient way of locating this object is to imagine a straight line drawn from the red planet Mars to the star Regulus. The Beehive is one quarter of the way along this line from Mars.

To the naked eye, this object appears as a small hazy patch of light in the center of a small triangle of three relatively faint stars. With field glasses, the component stars of this cluster are easily distinguished and form a truly interesting sight.

• • •

THIS type of object is known as an open cluster and is made up of thousands of stars, all traveling together in a compact group. Such groups are fairly common in the sky and are all in our galaxy.

In the early evening, the planet Jupiter is seen in the southwestern sky. It is the brightest object in the heavens at this time except for the moon, and shines out with a steady yellow light. The winter constellation salso are still visibe in the western sky in March.

Chic Star Patterns

Practical and Simple

For the Larger Woman.

Pattern 1977

You will find it extremely easy to slenderize the appearance of your figure if you will wear frocks designed especially for you. For example, the model shown today has a softly flared collar pointing to a petit bow, defining the full bust. The skirt flare is attached in a downward point well below the snug hipline. Tucks at the waist do away with a belt — giving height and so detracting from width. Sleeve flares make the arm seem more slender. Pattern 1977 makes up beautifully in georgette, flat crepe, triple voile, etc.

May be obtained only in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material.

"YES—I am 39 years Old!" SAYS IRENE RICH

This charming screen star tells how Hollywood keeps the lure of smooth, youthful skin . . .

"I DON'T mind confessing it a bit," says Irene Rich with her warm, irresistible smile. "I really am thirty-nine years old!

"A screen star never worries about birthdays, you see, as long as she doesn't look old. To hold her public—to face the cruel test of the close-up—she must keep the fresh loveliness of youth.

"That is why in Hollywood we guard complexion beauty above all else. We know it says 'youth' quicker than anything else. Any woman who wants to keep her charm right through the years should keep her skin always soft, smooth, youthfully aglow."

How does this lovely star guard complexion beauty? Just as so many other Hollywood actresses do—605 of the 613 important ones! "I use Lux Toilet Soap regularly," she says, "and have for years."

For every type of skin, Hollywood will tell you, this fragrant, delicately white soap is the perfect complexion care. Surely you will want to try it!

THEATER NEWS AND REVIEWS

THE RIGHT OF WAY WILL FINISH WEEK AT OHIO THEATER

Conrad Nagel and Loretta Young in Northwest Picture.

BY HALLIE HOUCK

CONRAD NAGEL JEANETTE MACDONALD

CONRAD NAGEL and Loretta Young are the featured players in "The Right of Way" coming to the Ohio Wednesday to play through Saturday. Prominent in the cast are Fred Kohler, William Janney, Snitz Edwards, Olive Tell and Yola d'Avril.

The picture was taken from the novel of the same title, written years ago by Sir Gilbert Parker and takes for its background the Canadian northwest.

Nagel's picture name is "Charles 'Beauty' Steele." Loretta Young's name in real life is Gretchen Young and she hails from Salt Lake City, Utah. Polly Ann Young and Sally Blane, both in the movies are her sisters.

Snitz Edwards the gargoyle-like veteran of the film industry is a part-Indian extraction. A recent biography of Fred Kohler states that he entered pictures in 1910 during a visit to Hollywood and that his first picture was "The Code of Honor."

Jeanette MacDonald and Edmund Lowe share honors in "Don't Bet on Women" at the Marion Wednesday and Thursday. Lowe, the gentleman with the intriguing droop to the left eyelid, has come a long way in the films since "The Cock-Eyed World" days.

The comedian for the picture is Roland Young, the delightful "uncle" in Lawrence Tibbett's "New Moon" which showed in Marion recently. He was born in London, the son of an architect. For getting over subtle comedy he can't be beat.

Imagine a man betting Edmund Lowe $10,000 that he, Lowe, could not kiss the first woman that steps on a certain porch, without disclosing that the aforesaid woman is the man's own wife. Complicated, but that's what happens in "Don't Bet on Women."

William K. Howard, director of the picture, also directed Lowe in "Good Intentions" and "Scotland Yard," two entertaining talking films. Lowe is the husband of the blond Lilyan Tashman, one of Hollywood's famous who abhors bridge, praise be!

HALF-SICK CHILDREN Pick Right Up

Even a husky child needs all its strength to resist disease. If your child is pale, listless or tires easily, you must be especially careful.

Father John's Medicine has stood the test of 75 years. Children thrive on it amazingly. They seem to pick up, become more alert, to gain in strength and vigor.

This is because Father John's Medicine brings, in combination with other valuable ingredients, all the benefits of cod liver oil and summer sunshine to sick children. It is rich in vitamins. Finicky eaters recover appetite. Their food somehow seems to do them more good. Their color improves, they gain in weight. Soon they are laughing and playing as of old.

Just ask your druggist for Father John's Medicine and have your child take it regularly. It contains no drugs, no alcohol. Over 184 hospitals and institutions use it regularly.

This Great Healing Oil Best For Pimples and Skin Troubles

Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well.

You've probably been, like a lot of other people, convinced that the only thing to use was an ointment or salve (some of them are very good) but in the big majority of cases these sticky salves simply clog the pores and the condition primarily remains the same.

Go to Bradley's Drug Store or any other good druggist today and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil—an 85 cent bottle lasts 2 weeks.

The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your skin troubles will be a thing of the past.

Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not attain or leave a greasy residue and that it must give complete satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded. —Adv.

Razor Blades Greatest Hazard of Hogs Growing Fat on City Garbage

SEVERAL persons depend on what other Marionites waste for a livelihood. They depend on the 18 tons of garbage and 132 tons of rubbish discarded each week by Marionites.

To begin with, 18 persons are employed by the city garbage department to collect this garbage and rubbish. They are constantly on the job with trucks and horse-drawn wagons, collecting and disposing of waste.

Then the garbage goes to the city farm west of here on Agosta road where a Cincinnati firm rents the farm and buys the garbage to feed between 200 and 400 hogs daily with the city's garbage. Two families depend on the operation of this farm for a living, sorting the garbage and caring for and shipping the animals.

Salvage Waste

Rubbish goes to the city dump at the northwest corner of the city, where several men obtain a few occasional dollars from the metal, paper and other material they glean from the castoff rubbish.

Both the garbage farm where the hogs are raised and the city dump are interesting places.

At the garbage farm, on an average of 300 hogs enjoy daily feasts on what Marionites discard. When they are placed on this diet, they are usually around 110 pounds in weight. Two to three months later finds them carrying another 100 pounds and ready for the market at a profit to their owners. The process goes on indefinitely.

One of the greatest hazards in feeding hogs garbage is the safety razor blade. Many persons thoughtlessly throw razor blades in the garbage pail, unwittingly jeopardizing the life of a hog. Several animals have been killed by swallowing a razor blade mixed in with the garbage. They bleed to death almost instantly.

Finds Fountain Pen

Because of the danger of broken glass and sharp pieces of metal, the garbage is raked before given to the hogs. Oftentimes articles more interesting than razor blades are found. One worker at the farm recovered a fountain pen from the garbage. Cleaned, it worked perfectly.

Occasional pieces of silverware, cups, glasses and other articles are found in the garbage where many of them have been thrown by mistake. Hotels, where a large volume of food is handled daily, often lose knives, forks and spoons in the garbage.

The rubbish pile at the city dump is the leading catch-all. Everything from father's slightly used shaving brush to an early model Ford's differential finds its way into the garbage pile. The shaving brush might be passed up and burned, but the differential will be reclaimed, sold to a junk dealer and may eventually finds its way into other differentials.

Several persons probe around in the rubbish every day for the metal, paper, and what-have-you to be found and resold. Hot water tanks are cut into pig troughs or flower boxes. Most of the reclaimed rubbish, however, is junk metal and paper, of which there is a steady supply.

Face Badly Disfigured. Ashamed to See Friends. Cuticura Healed.

"My trouble began with little red blotches appearing all over my face. Later they turned into hard, large, red pimples that were very irritating. They itched and burned something terrible, and some nights I could not sleep because of the irritation. I was ashamed to see my friends because my face was so badly disfigured.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample of each. I purchased more and in about a month I noticed the pimples were gradually disappearing. It took about four months before I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Helen Buklek, 4112 Mt. Vernon Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden, Mass."

Poisons in the blood settling in the joints and muscles cause rheumatism. You cannot get rid of rheumatic agony till every trace of these dangerous poisons is driven out of your system. That's why external remedies and pain deadening drugs only give temporary relief.

No long waiting for your suffering to stop. RU-MA eases pain the first day and is the one rheumatism remedy guaranteed to free muscles and joints from all painful stiffness, swelling and lameness.

Henney & Cooper has so much confidence in RU-MA that they want every rheumatic in town to try it and guarantee money-back if it does not end rheumatism.—Adv.

SORE THROATS serious now:

A sore spot no larger than a quarter can spread to the whole throat overnight. Gargle the very moment you feel the least soreness. Physicians recommend Bayer Aspirin for this purpose. It allays all inflammation immediately. It reduces the infection. Just crush three tablets in ⅓ tumblerful of water, and gargle well. It's a wise plan to take Bayer Aspirin after exposure to bad weather or whenever a cold threatens. If you ever have neuralgia, neuritis, or rheumatism, you should never be without this quick antidote for all such aches and pains. Genuine Bayer Aspirin is harmless. See that tablets bear the name, thus:

LONDON—American homes, with their aids to housekeeping and their wonderful bathrooms, are a delight to Miss Ellen Wilkinson, M. P., but nevertheless there is a mystery about them. She said in an international radiocast: "I simply could not understand, why, when American homes are so comfortable, American husbands seem to spend so little time in them. If you are asked to stay in American homes you rarely see the husband."

PAIN IN YOUR SHOULDER?

Use Tysmol for Relief

Knife-like jabs of pain in the vicinity of the shoulder blade are generally due to neuritis, brought on by exposure to draughts or sudden changes of weather. In some cases there is stiffness or soreness in the muscles, making it difficult to raise the arm.

The safest and easiest way to relieve such an attack is to apply a small quantity of Tysmol over the affected area. This soothing, healing preparation is quickly absorbed through the pores and carried to the throbbing aching peripheral nerves. The pains usually stop at once, and in a very short time the last trace of soreness should disappear.

Tysmol is absolutely harmless—free from dope. Recommended for all forms of nerve pain, whether caused by neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism. Sold by leading druggists. Always on hand at

The report that a hog out near San Francisco, the identity of which is as yet unknown, swallowed $2,575 worth of diamond jewelry may be all right, of course, and again it may be a scheme to boost hog prices by boosting the demand for hogs in the hope of locating the one with the diamond-decorated interior. Those Californians have an awful lot of initiative.

The Franco-Italian Accord.

When the cables last week brought to us the news that France and Italy had reached agreement on naval construction it naturally made pleasing reading. The story was that the two powers had gotten together on the initiative of Great Britain and were ready to sign the London naval pact, making it a five-power rather than a three-power undertaking as it is at present.

The fact of the matter is there was no reason why Frace and Italy should not have reached an accord from the first other than that of national pride. Italy did not and will not concede to France anything which might or may put her in the light of admitting inferiority. Should Italy continue the naval construction program she had already planned up to 1936, the date arranged at the London conference for another gathering on limitation, she would not be on a naval equality with France. Thus the job which faced British Foreign Secretary Henderson was to evolve some plan which would prove efficient in face-saving. This he apparently did, but what will be the cost of it is not yet known. Germany is said to suspect that the price of French compliance in the British plan is to let her, France, have her way in the matter of land forces. This would not vitally interest the United States, but since the Rome announcement a number of stories, manifestly government-inspired, have come from London on the need of another London conference in the immediate future, and yesterday hints were uttered that the Franco-Italian understanding might necessitate some little concessions by Japan and the United States. How far these "little concessions" may be expected to reach is not known, but it may be just as well not to be overly felicitous in regard to the coming together of France and Italy before we know the price we are expected to pay for it.

The Situation in Peru.

When the provisional government of Peru sent out word from Lima, something like a week ago that it had put down the revolution and had the situation well in hand and coincident therewith imposed a censorship on all news to the outside world, it was evident that conditions down there were not so rosy from the viewpoint of the government as it would have believed. It was not at all hard to reach that conclusion. Censorships are seldom, if ever, declared by governments to bar the sending to the outside world of news which is favorable to them. Subsequent developments have demonstrated that the Peruvian case was not an exception to the rule.

Lieutenant Colonel Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, who assumed the provisional presidency following the successful revolution of last August by which the administration of President Augusto B. Leguia was overthrown, was forced to resign Sunday and Chief Justice Ricardo Leonico Elias, of the Peruvian supreme court, was chosen provisional president of the new junta government. It was the army and navy which overthrew Leguia and it was the army and navy which forced the resignation of Cerro and replaced him with Elias.

Cerro, in taking over the provisional presidency, announced a program for a return to normalcy, including a free election to choose a constitutional president, the upholding of national obligations and prosecution of those of the Leguia administration who were charged with disappropriating public funds. Shortly thereafter labor troubles developed in the oil fields and discontent became manifest. Cerro made the further mistake of declaring himself a candidate for the presidency which, seemingly, is not considered ethical in Latin-American republics under such conditions. He withdrew his candidacy to appease the revolutionists, but they would not be appeased, and finally the navy advised him to resign, which he did Sunday. The navy held out that it suggested the resignation- suggestion in this case was merely another name for ultimatum—in the hope of avoiding further civil war and bloodshed, at the same time admitting its recognition of the fact that the military forces at Arequipa, Cuzco, Puno and Mollendo are up in arms against the Lima government.

It was the expressed hope of the navy leaders to persuade the army leaders heading the forces in revolt to join in a movement to effect constitutional government, but Monday's advices from Peru are that the military forces at the points named have rejected the plan to get together, and insist that they will maintain a government of their own.

Thus we find a provisional government, set up by the army and navy jointly to replace a government overthrown by them, in turn overthrown by the army and navy, acting separately, with a threat of two government where there was but one before.

How thoroughly Latin-Americanish the entire proposition from first to last.

Canada has put up the bars against soviet Russian imports, assigning forced labor and political slavery as the reason therefor. The world is at last awakening to the true inwardness of the "liberty and equality" of bolshevism.

How To Live Past 100 Years.

Dr. Irvin Baird and Miss Jill Crossley-Batt have sailed from London on a journey which will cover 15,000 miles and take them 13,000 feet up the slopes of the Himalayas.

Ten years ago Miss Crossley-Batt discovered a tribe of Chaldean origin, high up toward the topmost pinnacles of the world, the members of which lived well beyond 100 years if the evidences of their extreme age discovered by her were reliable.

It is the purpose of these two adventurers to relocate the tribe, pitch their tents in its mountain fastness and live with it for at least three months. Both of them have learned to speak Chaldean and they hope not only to bring back with them photographic evidences of the extreme ages to which the members of the tribe live, but also the diet and mode of living which enable them to attain the ages they do, that the knowledge thus gained may prove of benefit to the outside world.

It may be conceded that a people living simple lives on a plain, simple diet will live longer than a people living complicated lives on a rich diet, but it is to be questioned if any discovery Dr. Baird and Miss Crossley-Batt may make regarding the diet and mode of living of these Chaldeans will be of special benefit to the world in general so long as other conditions are what they are today.

The two adventurous souls on the way to the Himalayas can not bring back with them the pure air of an altitude of 13,000 feet, and if they could it would not long retain its purity amid the poisonous gases from smokestocks, and motor cars, and other accompaniments of what we call civilization. Nor could any knowledge they might glean do away with the glaring lights, the noises, the effort and the strain which are making nervous wrecks of humanity as we know it.

As an adventure, the trip will pass muster, but as a plan to make centennarians of us it is not convincing.

To be on the safe side, the three University of California professors who are as one in asserting that the evidence shows that man descended from the ape, the evolution starting 6,000,000 years ago, had better steer clear of the state of Tennessee. There is utterly no excuse for deliberately inviting lynchings.

To the already far-too-long list of special writers for newspapers, the name of Huey P. Long, governor of Louisiana and senator-elect from that state, has been added. We can not say that the latest addition to the variety has notably improved the quality of the average feature stuff.

Investigation has developed the fact that from two to three times as many voters at the recent primary in Chicago were registered from "flops," lodging-houses, rooming places and hotels in the First ward as the keepers and proprietors of such places have sworn were stopping with him. Are we to believe that candidates in Chicago knowingly would permit anything so utterly antagonistic to pure politics as repeating?

CHIPS ON THE SHOULDI....

The action of the Italian embassy in asking its consulate in New York for a full report on certain remarks made in that city Saturday by Assistant Attorney General John Lord O'Brian shows that the causations started by General Smedley Butler's hit-and-run speech are still operating. Although the embassy is reported not to contemplate asking the state department for another apology, as O'Brian explained immediately after his address that he had made an unfortunate choice of words and meant to allude to Italy only by way of comparison, an official examination of the speech for possible grounds for protest reveals a chip-on-the-shoulder policy that is becoming more and more irritating to many Americans.

The Italian embassy's appeal to the state department to halt the drastic punitive steps inaugurated against General Butler compensated in a measure for the apology issued in connection with that incident; but a good many of General Butler's countrymen are still wondering why a marine officer's reference to a foreign official should call for national abasement, when no official notice seems to have been taken of Signor Mussolini's speech of December 18, wherein he accused the American people of having produced the economic distress now being experienced in his country and thus sought to transfer to us the onus of responsibility for his own policies and their consequences. That doctrine that we must apologize every time an individual American criticizes a subordinate of the Italian sovereign, while that subordinate and his controlled and directed press can indulge in ridicule and abuse of the American people and their statesmen without protest, strikes reflecting Americans as a bit one-sided.

Already this self-abasement is being reflected in a type of American newspapers which, without an idea of their own, are alarmed when they see a man in uniform—an Admiral Sims, a General Mitchell or a General Butler—with ideas and the courage to express them. They accuse General Butler of playing politics and insinuate that he is seeking to play the role of de Rivera. They want him forthwith stripped of the uniform he has worn with distinction for thirty-two years and in which he helped win the war they tried to throw to the enemy. A little less precipitation in crucifying Americans on the cross of foreign rumors might set these milk-and-water contemporaries straight in mind. — Detroit Free Press.

ANDY'S COMPETITOR.

Chicago's dramatic interests are being extensively served. "Scarface" Al. Capone proceeds to court—a good dresser on and off, as the theatrical ads used to have it in the old Clipper. His progress, his conveyance, his garb, his exits and his entrances, all win enraptured attention, from the populace that enthrones a "Big Bill" Thompson.

From any consideration of his offensive character, the audience is turned in the courtroom to exposition of his doctor's services in Florida just how much the bill was, how the henchmen were grouped about the sufferer's bedside, how the physician took his temperature and looked at his tongue, what he said and what somebody else said.

The hero lolls in his chair, silent yet most audible. All that is lacking is equipment of the court-room for sound, and the broadcasting of the proceedings, in the manner of Moscow —Minneapolis Journal.

Infection and Erysipelas.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

It is interesting to browse through the old text books on medicine. If you did this, you would in all probability run across a disease spoken of as "St. Anthony's Fire." It was greatly dreaded because it usually spread like fire from one person to another.

Because of this, the disease was regarded as being contagious. Today it is not so considered, nor is it frequently seen.

There are several forms of the ailment, the most common being a variety in which the skin is involved. This disease is always preceded by a wound, a scratch, or a break of the skin. This may have been very slight, and indeed may not have been noticed at all.

There is always sudden fever with chill and intense local redness of the part involved. The original infection may be in the mouth, nostril, throat, ear, between the fingers or toes, at the margin of a nail, or in the folds of the skin itself.

Erysipelas is believed to be due to a certain germ called the "streptococcus." It spreads rapidly from one part of the body to another.

On the first or second day there is a redness of the skin. The redness spreads in patches. There are swelling and pain under the skin. These symptoms are followed by intense burning and itching.

About the fourth day the skin disturbance begins to disappear. After seven or eight days the patient shows signs of improvement.

This condition is spoken of as a self-limiting disease. Most cases speedily improve, requiring little medication. However, it is important that nursing care and medical attention be given to avoid any of the undesirable complications of erysipelas.

The diet should be nutritious but light. Water should be given in great amounts. If the fever is high the patient should be bathed and sponged frequently. Local applications are frequently applied, but all the treatment should only be given upon the advice of a physician.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

G.V.D. Q—I have had a breakdown, accompanied by a touch of tuberculosis two years ago and now feel that I need proper exercise to build up. Would dancing be too strenuous —preferably classical dancing?

2—I seem to be troubled with pains in the stomach upon arising, but as soon as I have eaten breakfast they disappear. What would cause this trouble and what will I do to correct it?

3—What is the cause of gas in the stomach?

A—If done in moderation, dancing of this type should not be harmful in any way.

2—Probably due to acidity—caused by poor digestion and sluggish elimination. Watch your diet and keep the system clear.

3—Gases are due to acidity—the food does not digest and ferments in the stomach. This in turn delays elimination.

• • •

A.B.C. Q—What will remove scars left by insect bites?

2—How can I lose about ten pounds?

A—They will probably disappear of themselves.

2—By cutting down on sweets and starches and taking plenty of outdoor exercise.

• • •

J. C. Q—Will you explain cause of a slight tremor of the body, lasting only an instant, but occurring quite frequently? Does this require medical attention? Would it be connected in any way with a sinus trouble?

2—Is sinus trouble curable?

A—Due to some nerve disturbance. Infection in the system naturally affects the nerves, as well as other parts of the body. Clear up the underlying cause first of all.

2—Yes; but it is important to locate the source of the trouble first of all.

• • •

KITTIE. Q—What causes a pain under the shoulder blade?

2—Would it be safe to marry a patient suffering with tuberculosis?

A—This may be due to neuritis or to gases in the system. Application of heat may give relief.

2—Depending upon the extent and severity of the trouble. Have your doctor advise you.

• • •

MARY M. Q—I am a girl of fifteen, and have had the hives for several summers—what is the cause and what treatment would you advise?

A—Hives may be due to several different sources—improper diet and poor elimination are very apt to be factors.—Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Greatest Woman Mathematician.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

In this day of woman's emancipation, when all the avenues are open to all, regardless of sex, women are displaying great talents in many fields of science. The colleges and universities contain many women teachers; and science counts among its votaries women of no mean order of ability. The late Charlotte Angas Scott, professor of mathematics at Bryn Mawr College for Women, was a mathematician of some eminence; and a number of women mathematicians in this country today contribute to scientific journals and present the results of their research before scientific bodies.

Perhaps the only truly eminent woman mathematician in history, the results of whose research are well known and preserved, is Sonya Kovalevsky. She was born in Moscow, Russia, about the year 1850. The story of her life has been entertainingly told by Isabel F. Hapgood and Anna Charlotte Leffler. It was from her uncle that Sonya Kovalevsky first received inspiration for scientific studies. Although he had not systematically studied mathematics, he had acquired considerable knowledge and was in the habit of philosophizing aloud regarding some of the curious problems of mathematics. "I heard from him for the first time, for example," relates his niece, "about the quadrature of the circle, and about many things of the same sort—the sense of which I could not of course understand as yet; but which acted as an inspiration, imbuing me with a reverence for mathematics, as for a lofty and mysterious science, which opened out to those who consecrated themselves to it a new and wonderful world not to be attained by simple mortals."

A singular incident during her childhood exercised a curious influence in turning her mind to mathematical reflections. In papering the walls of their country home, sheets from Ostogradsky's lithographed lectures on the differential and integral calculus were pasted on the walls of one room. The sensitive girl, full of a natural curiosity, spent much time in poring over these sheets, with their curious symbols. Although they were incomprehensible to her, they became engraved on her mind; and when, at the age of fifteen, she began to study the differential calculus, her teacher noted with astonishment the celerity with which she "grasped and assimilated the conceptions of the terms and derivations just as if she had known them before."

At the age of seventeen, Sonya accompanied her family to St. Petersburg. She was exceedingly ambitious, and wished to go away to some other country to pursue her studies at a great university. She ran away from home, and married a young man by the name of Kovalevsky, who also wished to complete his studies at some important institution. They soon went to Heidelberg, where she studied mathematics.

After studying for two years at Heidelberg, where she attracted the favorable attention of Konigsberger and Kirchhoff, she went to Berlin and studied for four years under the tutelage of Weierstrass, the father of mathematical analysis. For three mathematical treatises she wrote under the direction of Weierstrass, she received the degree of doctor of philosophy from the University of Goettingen. For a time, following separation from her husband, she served as professor of mathematics at the University of Stockholm. Later she removed to Paris, and gained worldwide distinction by winning the Prix Bordin, awarded by the French Academy of Science. At her death in 1891, notable honors were paid her, by mathematicians from many parts of the world.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Lost Both Temper and Slave.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

In the issue of the Liberty Hall and Cincinnati Gazette of October 6, 1826, appears an interesting advertisement. Henry V. Sommervills offers a reward of $150 for the capture of a slave. It reads: "I will give the above sum for the apprehension and safe keeping in jail so that I can get him, of my servant, Hamlet Green, a slave, who absconded from me at Wilmington, Ohio, on last Sunday, October 1. Hamlet has been treated with the greatest indulgence since early infancy, and has been accustomed to travel with me in every part of the United States, and was, no doubt, enticed off by evil-minded persons. He is an accomplished dining-room servant and coachman, and will doubtless try to hire out for one of those occupations. I have good reason to believe that he traveled out of Wilmington by the road to Xenia, and will probably be found about the frontier around the lake or possibly at Detroit." The advertisement closes with a description of the runaway, a twenty-five-year-old man.

At first glance this would indicate that slavery was tolerated at Wilmington at this time, but another advertisement in the same issue proves that Somerville was merely traveling through Ohio by stage coach with his slave, and that at Wilmington he came into contact with some officials of the "Underground Railroad" of the time, by whose aid Hamlet probably escaped over into Canada. Somerville, with three other passengers claimed to have been deceived by Colonel Noble at Lancaster into believing that by taking a certain coach they would reach Cincinnati by Sunday. Instead they were landed at Wilmington and compelled by the lack of stage facilities to spend Sunday in that place. Somerville lost there not only his slave, but his temper, and reaching Cincinnati, he, with the other three passengers, joined in inserting a notice to the public in this newspaper about how unfairly they had been treated by the stage coach company.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, March 3—Park avenue of all New York streets has made greatest progress during the past ten years. A high-powered association fights encroachment of business, vulgar display of electric signs, five and ten red fronts and other commercialisms costing Fifth avenue a place in the sun.

Yet many say in fifteen years Park will go the way of Fifth unless vigilance is strict. Beglamoured by its own achievements, a street often becomes careless. Already stage comics speak of Park as a rincon where "bad ladies walk good dogs." A half dozen huge hotels now dot the street.

The association is striving to keep theaters out of the boundary. A huge cinema cathedral is seeking location there—dangling aloft a pot of gold. If bars are let down in this instance other amusement ventures are bound to creep in. And Park will become declasse.

There are no street cars on Park, but there is a faint rattle from the trains that thunder into Grand Central. Among the 5,000 wealthy families who reside on the thoroughfare between Thirty-Fourth and Ninetieth, there are reputed at least 1,500 millionaires.

No rents in the city are so high, ranging from $7,000 a year to $50,000. Many buildings are cooperative and apartments sell from $60,000 low to $250,000 high. Buyers must be Ok'd by a meticulously-minded board of directors.

Restrictions along the Gold coast are often racial. A prospect must have his record scrutinized from cradle to now. Its pretensions are symbolized by one hotel offering a bedroom with a Rembrandt and for which a $30 a day extra charge is made.

Along this polished promenade live three German princes, two grand dukes and several barons. Park avenue zooms along for more than forty blocks with a Mayfair grandeur and ends abruptly with the plop of a falling rocket in a Ghetto pushcart rabble.

Recently I had a close-up of one of those frequent cafe hold-ups. My table was near the cashier. A youth came in, his face the sickly white of a shark's belly. And I immediately lost all interest in a grand twenty-cent cut of lemon meringue pie.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, March 3—Familiar to every officer and doughboy of the Twenty-Sixth—Yankee—division in the World war is the name "Stubby."

There's not one of them who won't take time off to tell you of the day "Stubby" in the Toul sector in 1918 stopped a piece of shrapnel.

There's not one who can't tell you of the time "Stubby" aroused a sleeping sergeant just in time to save his life before a gas attack.

"Stubby" was a stray dog that drifted into the Yale bowl on that summer day of 1917 when the 102nd infantry of Connecticut was being mobilized. Bob Conroy, now secretary to Representative Fenn of that state, saw him and decided that "Stubby" should go to France with the outfit.

The dog was adopted as a mascot, and later was so honored by the whole division. For eighteen months "Stubby," with the Yankee division, saw some of the stiffest fighting of the war, and at the close was mustered out a hero in his own right and acclaimed one of the most famous of war dogs.

• • •

One of "Stubby's" greatest admirers is Representative William P. Connery, Jr., of Massachusetts, who was a member of the Yankee division.

The other day Connery learned that an oil painting of this famous dog had been found. Promptly he introduced a bill in congress calling for an appropriation of $1,000 with which to buy it and present it to the Red Cross.

"Stubby" died in Washington in 1926, at the age of ten, but he may be seen any day in the museum at Red Cross headquarters. Taxidermists have preserved his body. In a glass case, with "his book"—a diary of writings and photographs of his war record—and all his medals, he stands in a life-like posture. Within the plaster cast, in a sealed container, are his ashes.

If congress agrees to buy the oil painting, it, too, will be placed near by.

• • •

After the war "Stubby" was a familiar figure wherever his buddies gathered. He led all the American Legion parades his legs could carry him to, but in his later years he had to slow up.

He was made a life member of the Red Cross, of the Y. M. C. A. and the American Legion. President Wilson shook his paw on Christmas day of 1918. President Harding received him officially at the White House, as did also President Coolidge.

General Pershing personally pinned a wound stripe on him as the result of that shrapnel incident in the Toul sector. In addition to his wound stripe, he wore three service stripes.

The chamois coat that now covers him was made by the women of Chateau-Thierry, who embroidered thereon the flags of the Allies. This coat carries his score or more decorations.

"Stubby" won himself an Iron Cross during the war, and that, too, is listed among his decorations.

Rodriguez was standing on a street corner, waiting for his wife when the five men arrived in an automobile. One of them demanded his money and when he pleaded he had none he was struck in the face with a pistol, which shattered his jaw bone. Another of the five lighted a fuse of the bomb, which contained 15 pounds of dynamite and which was made of a steel pipe, and tossed it into a coal chute of Hackett's place. Two others seized Rodriguez and threw him in after the bomb.

The bomb, however, failed to explode. Terror stricken, Rodriguez climbed out in time to see the five get into their car. They saw him and two of them fired. One bullet inflicted a slight wound. Then a fusillade of bullets felled Mayer and the machine gunners sped away in their cars.

Soak Bomb with Water

Firemen filled the basement with water and retrieved the bomb, which they said probably did not explode because moisture in the cellar extinguished the fuse. Had it done so it would have wrecked the building.

Hackett said he knew of no reason for the attack, but the police held the theory that it resulted from his refusal to join a powerful gambling syndicate.

HUNT FOR COUPE AS MURDER PROBE CLUE

Vivian Gordon Slain Because of Blackmail Operations, Is New Theory.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 3—The search for the slayer of Vivian Gordon, blackmailer and vice inquiry witness, centered today on a small coupe bearing the license number N-8,819.

General notice was broadcast by police that the coupe was wanted in connection with a murder. Inspector Henry Bruckman, in charge of the police end of the case, and District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin of the Bronx, refused to divulge the information they have about the coupe. Bruckman issued the broadcast with the warning that the car, when found, was not to be distrubed.

Vivian Gordon

The license in question was issued to Harold Doman, who lived in an apartment hotel on the upper west side. According to the hotel room clerk, Doman lived there two weeks last year, checking out without paying one week's rent—$7. The clerk said Doman had many callers, all of them men. He was sure he never had seen Miss Gordon.

The theory the woman was slain because she was operating a blackmail ring was tentatively accepted today by Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney.

Miss Gordon, he said, was an "expert racketeer," who supplied pretty women for gay parties with instructions to determine the social position and financial rating of their escorts for future extortion. The names of about 40 men were listed in her diaries, he said.

clerk began routine reading of legislative business. As he began, his voice was drowned out by a shout from a man in the rear of the assembly chamber who said he wanted to speak "in behalf of the children that are hungry."

The movement of troopers toward the individual was a signal for the beginning of shouts from the demonstrators.

While the demonstration was proceeding in the assembly chamber, another group of unemployed was holding a mass meeting on the steps of the capitol. They were joined by their fellows who had been ejected from the building.

Steps Cleared

The troopers then cleared the capitol steps. They encountered some opposition, and again the clubs were wielded freely. In a short time the steps were cleared and the agitators were scattered about Capital park, jeering and booing at the constabulary.

Some of the group formed lines and paraded down State street while spectators lined the sidewalks.

Captain's Head Cut

Captain J. F. Keely of the troopers was cut about the head and face during the scrimmage. It is believed this assailant was wearing brass knuckles.

After the main body of the demonstrators had paraded away from the capitol grounds, small groups began filtering back toward the steps, but were kept at a distance by the troopers. A squad of troopers was detailed to surround the executive mansion.

William Bell, a page in the senate, was a casualty. During the fighting in the assembly gallery he went to the assistance of a trooper who had been knocked down and was himself, struck over the head with a stick carried by one of the rioters.

IN THIS COLUMN the fact was mentioned that the first three or four months of 1931 would find Wall street gentlemen worried, as unpleasant reports of "earnings" or the lack of them were made public.

When a grizzly bear is shot in the heart he runs on some distance, not knowing what has happened When he finds himself sitting down he is startled, and then dead.

Fortunately nothing in this country is dead, but some things were badly shot and founded during 1930. As the news comes out, the fact that the worst is over does not prevent exaggerated fear.

Yesterday Wall street was sick, because actual figures of diminished railroad receipts were made public. And to that was added a worrying rumor that Mr. Mellon would resign on March 4.

PLAYGROUND GRAFT DEALS IN LIMELIGHT

1929 Cleveland Scandals Again Enter Potter Murder Investigation.

By International News Service.

CLEVELAND, O., March 3—The sensational land graft scandals of 1929, which have bobbed up repeatedly in the investigation into the murder of William E. Potter, again broke into the limelight today as city and county detectives probed deeper into the events which led to the brutal slaying of the former councilman.

Believed hunting a clue which will lead to the apprehension of the associates of "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin, indicted slayer of Potter, or "Akron Mary" Outland Woodfield, elusive sweetheart of the accused man, County Detective Fred C. Alber last night questioned former Councilman Liston G. Schooley, who is now serving a term at Ohio penitentiary as a result of the land deals.

Detective Alber left here yesterday for the reported purpose of searching for "Akron Mary." He refused to comment on his two-hour conference with the man who was indicted with Potter in the in the playground graft scandals.

While the city and county detectives evidently were conducting separate investigations, the county grand jury today was to continue its own probe into the details of the killing.

Four persons, who are believed to have supplied information that Martin and another man and two women held a noisy party at a west side apartment hotel, three days before the murder, testified before the jury yesterday.

JURY SEATED TODAY FOR TRIAL OF RALLS

Thirteenth Member Will Be Named Following Recess for Noon.

Daisy Rothschild of New Washington, Thomas W. Weaver of Bucyrus, Mrs. Harriett Cummins of Galion, Joseph Lang of Crestline and Mrs. June Kennedy of Bucyrus.

Nine veniremen were dismissed this morning. They were Thomas Weaver of Bucyrus, Mrs. Minnie Bailey of Galion, Richard W. Noyer of Bucyrus, Mrs. Laura Castle of Galion, L. M. West of Crestline, M. R. Sturtz of Bucyrus and Orlo Ropp of Bucyrus.

At the close of Monday's court proceedings 11 tentative jurors were seated in the jury box and the defense attorney, Louis Kreiter, having exercised three of his six alloted peremptory challenges.

23 Examined First Day

Twenty-three prospective jurors from a venire of 75 had been examined at adjournment at 4:40 o'clock. Those seated as tentative jurors at the close of court Monday were Mrs. Effie Weidemire of Bucyrus, Joshua C. Lichtenwalter of Bucyrus, M. N. Roberts of Bucyrus, C. Albertson Brown of Bucyrus, W. F. McConnell of Tiro, Mrs. Daisy Rothschild of New Washington, Roy Dinkel of Galion, George W. Carmer of Galion, Carl Monat of Galion, Robert L. McCallister of Crestline and Mrs. J. J. Allward of Galion.

Prospective jurors examined during Monday afternoon who were not seated were Samuel Shoemaker of Crestline, James M. Carlisle of Bucyrus, Grant Weaver of Chatfield, John R. Smith of Bucyrus, John Lutz of Bucyrus and Gordon Korb of Chatfield.

Three tentative jurors dismissed by peremptory challenge by the defense counsel Louis Kreiter were Mrs. Susan Maudsley, J. C. Durr and Charles E. Reece, all of Bucyrus.

Before the right of peremptory challenge was granted to counsel, Judge C. U. Ahl addressed the tentative jury briefly asking that any juror should at that time speak up if they had any reason for not serving as jurors. Both defense and state counsel addressed the tentative body also. Prosecutor J. D Sears stressed especially the point of personal reluctance against the first degree murder verdict, asking especially the three women if any personal feeling should prevent them from returning a first degree murder verdict without recommendation of mercy.

Questions Jurors

Attorney Kreiter again took the opportunity to question the tentative jurors whether they had any opinion as to guilt or innocence of the defendant.

Mrs. Gertrude Kime of Crestline, Alice Halm of Bucyrus, Mrs. J. W Wright and S. J. Baumgartner were dismissed through doctor's certificates Monday.

The trial, which is attracting a full court room of spectators during every session, is progressing more rapdly than was generally expected. The defendant who appeared in court neatly dressed and freshly shaven did not appear to be nervous but watched intently all of the proceedings. His wife, who sat with him Monday morning, did not remain at his side during the afternoon.

Do the Fat Love Fat?

If not, there is small excuse for excess in these scientific days

Science has determined that excess fat is largely due to a weakened thyroid gland. That gland secretion is a premier factor in nutrition. It helps turn food into fuel and energy which otherwise goes to fat.

After countless experiments on animals and human beings, the consensus of opinion is that this lacking factor must be fed. Physicians the world over now accept that doctrine and employ it. As a result, excess fat has disappeared by tons in late years. And without starvation, over-exercise or harmful drugs.

Marmola prescription tablets appeared on the verge of this discovery. A world-famous medical laboratory prepares them to accord with modern science. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. And nobody needs be told that excess fat has largely disappeared.

Ask your friends who know what Marmola does. You cannot do that by starvation. Look about you and see the revolution it has wrought. Why doubt a help which, for 24 years, has done what Marmola has done?

Go get a box. Read the book in it, containing the formula and all reasons for results. When your weight comes down and new vim appears, you will know why the results are good.

Don't wait longer. Marmola costs only $1 a box at your drug store. The purpose is to correct an abnormal condition. Learn what it means to you in new beauty, new health and vim. Then please tell others.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

SYNOPSIS

Pretty Marjorie Lauderdell's illness mystifies her uncle when he and his wife call to see her at Dr. Charters' nursing home. Having just explained to the physician that she had never been ill until she moved to her uncle's house, she protests that Dr. MacAdoo's medicine has been making her worse and asks that Dr. Studley be given her case. Charters somewhat sharply advises her that he himself has taken charge of her. While Mr. James Charters' confidant, escorts the uncle through the grounds, the aunt interviews Charters, passing him a note and telling him that Marjorie's twenty-first birthday is September first. The Lauderdells greet their niece kindly, but refuse consent for her to leave the institution until she has improved. Shortly after, Charters looks up from his desk to see a scowling stranger, who addresses him as "Half-hung" Simon.

CHAPTER 2

"Half-Hung" Simon

LOUNGING forward, his hands in the pocket of his coat, the intruder, seating himself on the edge of the desk, nonchalantly leaned forward and, smiling crookedly, inquired:

"Well, and how are things going with Half-hung Simon?"

The doctor's eyes narrowed otherwise not a muscle of his face moved, nor did his expression change by a hair's breadth as he looked at the clean-shaven, grey-eyed face before him.

HALF-HUNG SIMON! . . .

His mind leaped back over the years, and he saw himself seated astride a horse, his hands bound, one end of a rope noosed about his neck, the other tied to a branch of the big tree beneath which he waited for death and the Missen crowd waited to see him die. He could see their faces now, and old Buc Witton, the girl's father, fingering the trigger while the boys bade Buck not to be a fool and a spoil-sport. He could hear Chuck Masters' voice:

"You don' wanna shoot the skunk, Buck."

"Sure thing you don't . . . Not till he's danglin'." Shorty Coghlan had shouted. Finally, as the sun set, after what seemed hours of dreadful torture, they had all cleared off.

How often had he wakened from dreams of sitting, bound, upon a restless horse; entreating, cajoling, caressing with his voice, praying alternately to his horse and to his God; and of the agony, mental and physical when it had taken one step forward and then another, until the rope was choking him, forcing him to lean back at an agonizing angle, and wriggle his body towards the horse's crupper.

How often in his dreams had he fallen with a terrific crash of the breaking bough that had saved his life.

The devil had been watching over his own when Chuck Masters had flung the rope over that rotten bough.

Half-hung Simon! . . .

Dr. Charters' eyes narrowed yet further as he stared at the face of the man who sat leering triumphantly.

Had he been one of the Missen outfit? He could not place him.

In a fraction of a second Dr. Charters saw his past, its darkest corners illuminated. In none of them could he find this man, though he had seen his face or portrait before.

From the days of his youth, as a medical student in London, to those of his fame as the successful physician of Harley Street and the Monastery Nursing-Home he reviewed his life.

Childhood. . . . His feebly-nagging shrewish mother; his drunken and disreputable father, a genius of great intellect and little virtue; now rich, now poor.

He could hear him now.

"Ah, my boy, there's only two ways of making real money, patent medicine and patent religion. Look at Pumper's Pills — bread crumbs and calomel. A farthing's worth for half-a-crown. Look at the Prophet Stone and his church. Why, Stone must have made a million out of the books alone."

College . . . He had distinguished himself after that fright when the shadows of the prison had almost fallen across his path. Fool that he had been to try and use the scalpel at that age, and that degree of inexperience. But the money had tempted him—and he had got away with it.

Practice . . . Excellent and growing, until he had again encountered Maud, nurse, confidante of "society" black sheep, and his evil genius. (Fancy Maud hooking poor old Lauderdell). What a practice they had, and what a cruel thing that he'd had to leave it all and skip to America to escape blackmail.

America. That religion stunt had been good hunting. Those old women sitting up on the hill waiting for judgment day to dawn, while their pastor sat on the limited to Chicago, a smile on his face and the dollars in his suitcases!

Where had this fellow known him? Rio? Buenos Aires? Chicago? A hectic patch that. Profitable but rather dangerous. The gang—a tough crowd!

And he had brought more to the treasury by kidnaping for ransom—than any of them; though Spider Schlitz had certainly run them a good line in blackmail, and Chink Dorson in the girl-traffic, with the help of Louie the Lady and 'Frisco Fanny. Jimmy had been their sure defense against all rivals and squealing victims.

Yes, kidnaping had been a great game while it lasted, and the gang had had him to thank for the biggest haul of all—the St. Clair diamonds.

Pure bad luck that they had been pinched and sent-up for a few years just when they had brought off the splendid St. Clair coup. However, he had got out in time to nobble Schlitz's and Dorson's shares of the diamonds, and his own before skinning across the Atlantic—England being safe for him again, and America unhealthy.

Lucky that he had never got into any public trouble in England, or he'd have been struck off the medical register. Could this fellow have come from the original blackmailing gang from whom he had fled to America in the first place? No—too long ago. That was all forgotten and the blackmailers jailed or dead, by now.

Columbia jail. A terrible time and a terrible place. Had it been there that he had encountered this swine? He must not give himself away, by asking.

What was the game? Some cheap blackmail stunt? Mr. James might have something to say to the fly Mister Blackmailer. It might prove easier to come into Dr. Charters' consulting-room than to get out of it again.

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TUESDAY, and the wind was from the south. I would like to know how far the north wind went. I bet it if went far enough all the watermelons and bananas and munkys got froze. I would hate to be a munky and have to hang by my tail from a high up limb when the wind from the north was blowing. My grandfather says that once when he was in South America he shot a munky and all the other munkys gathered around it and cried and felt offul bad. He said he was sorry he shot it because its meat didn't taste so very good. My ant said that she didn't know that he was a cannibal amongst other things. My grandfather said she was a cannibal too, because he had seen her eat peaches, and she was so supprized she almost choked on a piece of bacon she got crossways in her goozle. My mother told my grandfather he ought to be more careful.

The world was all full of slush today from melting snow, and if anyone paisted anyone else with snowball, which lots of us did, the snowball was so soaking wet the water would go right through their clothes to their skins. Everybody was feeling good and having a lot of fun. Jubilee was soaked from chasing snowballs and jumping into drifts which were only piles of water. Feeble's fingers have got well from pulling the tricker of her air rifle with the tricker guard down, and when I told her about the fat lady going up the street backwards in the wind she wished she had been there with her air rifle. I am glad she wasn't, because that wouldn't have been right to treat a lady that way.

We were walking behind a lady on the way from school, and I had a snowball in my hand and she turned around and said if I dasted to throw that snowball she would slap my face off, so I throwed it and paisted the Lost Bag of Tripe in the ear. There can't no lady munky with me and get away with it. She didn't do a thing. And then the Lost Bag of Tripe fired a wet one at me and I ducked and it hit the lady under the chin, and she chaseted the Lost Bag of Tripe, but she didn't catch him. A lady runs something like a cow, but a boy runs like a deer. She hollered that she knowed him and was going to tell his mother. But that won't get her anything. Anyhow it was an accident, and a feller shouldn't be licked for an accidentdent. If the snowball had hit me it wouldn't have been an accident so I would have licked him myself maybe. We were [illegible] the pond. It was very [illegible] covered with slush, [illegible] wet sliding. We [illegible] trough the [illegible] across [illegible]

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge and Lillian Continue the Review of Katherine's Unhappy Life

"BUT I do know," Lillian said emphatically as I confessed my ignorance of what reactions might be Katherine's and her husband's when he should come back from South America where he had been immured during a long engineering expedition.

"Katrina is as true and staunch as they make 'em," she said, "but this 'brother-cousin' of yours"—at her withering tone, I remembered that Lillian never had liked Jack Bickett—"seems to me, saving your presence, to be about the last egg in the cold storage basket. Just look at what he pulled on this last trip. Left her for that engineering trip to South America to be gone two or three years, and refused either to take her along, or to permit her to practice her profession while he was gone. The man has an abnormal slant on things, I tell you. His wife, without a relative in all the world, and no friend within a thousand miles, for you know how he would not go away from home himself or let her meet anyone—they lived like hermits—and he expecting her to sit in a two-by-four apartment all the time he was gone, with nothing to do but think of him and write to him. By the mercy of Allah, you needed her sorely just then, and after a trying period you finally secured a reluctant consent from him for her to stay with you while he was gone. And he's written her at the rate of one letter every six months since he's been gone. Oh, the love of a high-spirited woman like Katrina thrives on that sort of treatment!"

Flimsy Excuses

"She couldn't very well have gone with him," I said, trying to find some defense for Jack when I knew in my heart there was none except what might be found in his mental and physical condition. Yet he was able to take his full share of the hardships of this most arduous expedition, and do his work, ably, even brilliantly.

"Why couldn't she?" Lillian countered strenuously. "That's what Katherine or any other woman worth her salt would love best, to go with her man through a dangerous stunt like that. You know very well that though Katherine is slight and looks fragile, she has muscles of steel and no nerves at all. She could go where any other woman could go."

"And there is already a woman down there," I said reflectively.

A Dangerous Woman

"Exactly, and a dangerous wren she is too. I've heard of her and I'd like to have the wringing of her neck. She's the sister of Jack's business partner, and her one virtue is being a 'wilderness woman.' She shines in the wilds, but in civilization she's a mess. However, I know of the homes she's broken up when she's been a member of these expeditions. She's one of these articles who believes in the complete individuality of the individual. You know the theory—if you see a man you happen to like, you go out and annex him, regardless of his wife or aged mother or seven children, or anything else."

"Provided you can," I interposed, laughing, although I did not feel particularly mirthful.

"Well, it isn't so hard to do when you're the only white woman within a thousand miles," Lillian retorted, "and she generally takes good care that there's no other woman in camp."

College Sweethearts

"You think thenC—" I began.

"I don't think. I pretty nearly know," she retorted. "Oh, I know how hard it is to get mail from there, and all that. But it isn't so far in the interior as his other trip was, and she got letters much more frequently then, for I've heard her speak of receiving them.

"But if her husband doesn't choose to write her, Hal Meredith certainly makes up for his dereliction," she went on. "That is he was setting a record before I went away. Every foreign mail brought her a letter, and generally a package with some remembrance of his travels."

"She's still receiving them," I said gravely.

"Hal and Kathie were sweethearts when they were just out of college, weren't they?"

"Not acknowledged sweethearts," I answered, although I knew that she knew that old story nearly as well as I, and was only asking to check her memory with mine. "He was an interne and she a student nurse in the same hospital, and they were very much in love with each other."

"But before Hal had a chance to tell Katherine about it, Lucia Thayer, daughter of the head of the hospital, and desperately in love with Hal, went to her father whose idol she was with a story involving a married man with whom she had been carrying on a flirtation. There wasn't a word of truth in it as it happened, but Lucia made her father believe there was, and herself proposed the scheme that her father should save her 'name' by getting Hal Meredith's consent to marry her. Hal owed her father his education and a peculiar debt of gratitude besides, and when the old man, broken and despairing, came to him, Hal put all thoughts of Katherine away and married his patron's daughter, being rewarded, incidentally by being aided to one of the finest medical careers going. How about it, old dear? Have I got the dope straight?"
